Affordable Housing is Limited

Of the 52,344 total units for rent in North Fulton County, only 5.2%, or 2,737 units, of any size (studio, 1-bedroom, 2-bedroom, and 3+ bedrooms) cost under $750 a month – not nearly enough to meet the needs of the rapidly growing population.¹

Furthermore, given that over two in five (or 41% of) renters age 65+ in North Fulton County do not have access to a vehicle, and 9.6% of all renters do not have access to a vehicle, there is a need for rental housing to be located near services and transportation options.¹

LOCAL SOLUTIONS

Policies must be implemented that encourage the development of a mix of housing types within existing communities, at a variety of price points. Zoning regulations should be written to allow homes to be built in close proximity to the services that enable people to remain independent as they age.

- » Does your city/county provide incentives (e.g., tax breaks, fee-waivers) to encourage the development of affordable and supportive housing units?
- » Do your city's and/or county's zoning regulations allow for a diversity of housing types and options (e.g. secondary units on one property)?
- » Do your city's and/or county's development codes encourage universal design elements (e.g., no step entries, wider doorways) to allow for a diversity of housing types and options?
- » Does your city/county permit access to basic services within walking distance of residences?
- » Does your community require a certain percentage of new housing developments to include affordable units?

³ Rent is the contract rent plus the estimated average monthly cost of utilities (electricity, gas, and water and sewer) and fuels (oil, coal, kerosene, wood, etc.). Gross rent is intended to eliminate differentials that result from varying practices with respect to the inclusion of utilities and fuels as part of the rental payment.
